CURRENT PROJECTS:

Research articles in progress:

“Re-reading as Contemplation: The political theologies of Augustine and Cicero as Sources for Aquinas’ Definition of religio.” (9,000 word draft ms.)

“Formlessness and Image: The Seal of the Spirit in Nicolas Cabasilas’ The Life in Christ.” (5,000 word partial draft)

“Origen on Eschatology and Interpretation: Joshua, Christ, and Biblical Textuality.” (5,000 word partial draft)

Invited essays, articles, and books in progress:

“Sacraments.” An invited contribution to the St. Andrew’s Encyclopedia of Theology, due May, 2024.

“The Sacraments in Early Modernity: Gabriel Vásquez and John of St. Thomas on symbolism and human action.” An invited essay for the inaugural volumes of the journal, The New Ressourcement. (*a version of this essay was delivered as a paper in Rochester, MN, October 5-7, 2023).

“Wisdom and the Sacraments.” An invited essay to be published in a volume edited by Daria Spezzano and Boyd Taylor Coolman, due September 2024.

Introduction to Sacramental Theology. An invited textbook for the Sacra Doctrina series, Chad Pecknold and Thomas Joseph White, eds. (Washington, DC: The Catholic University of America Press).

The Conimbricenses Encyclopedia. Invited contributions to the “theology” section of this project, with two articles (and possibly more) on “The Science of Theology” and “Sacramental Causality”, to begin in the summer of 2023. The “Theology” section of this encyclopedia is coordinated by Marco Toste (University of Coimbra) and Lidia Lanza (University of Lisbon). This digital resource will analyze unpublished and understudied sources from the University of Coimbra and other Iberian scholastic sources produced between 1550 and 1620, with the aim of reconceptualizing reigning scholarly assumptions about the development and scope of Iberian thought during this period. In addition to surfacing the work of previously unpublished scholars who held positions at Coimbra during this period (such as António de São Domingos, Cristóvão Gil, and Francisco de Cristo, and Inácio Dias), this project will also provide new historical context for the work of well-known figures associated with the Coimbra school during this period, such as Francisco Suárez and Rene Descartes.

PROFESSIONAL ACADEMIC SERVICE:

Member, Academic Affairs Committee (Internal, Dominican House of Studies), appointed from August 1, 2023-present.

Board of Advisors, the journal New Ressourcement, invited member, 2023-present.

The New Ressourcement* is a new academic journal founded by Robert Barron (Bishop of Winona-Rochester), with Matthew Levering as Senior Editor and Jonathan Ciraulo and Aaron Pidel, S.J. as Co-Editors. Publication of the first issue is scheduled for February 2024. Mission Statement: “The New Ressourcement is a quarterly journal of theology that serves the Church and the academy by publishing scholarly articles that demonstrate the depth and relevance of the entirety of the Catholic tradition. This journal aims to sentire cum tota ecclesia, to think with the whole Church as it has ever reflected on the mystery of the Incarnate Christ, as seen in sources that are biblical, patristic, medieval, as well as modern. The journal draws inspiration from, and seeks to continue the work of, previous generations of ressourcement theologians. It shares with them a conviction that the renewal of theology occurs by returning to sources that remain inexhaustible. This ressourcement is “new” because we trust that this patrimony is fertile enough to encounter contemporary questions confidently and to illuminate the challenges and opportunities that shape the present age.”

Board of Advisors, the journal Nova et Vetera (English edition), invited member, 2023-present.

Book Review Editor, The Thomist: A Speculative Quarterly Review, September 2021-present.
