CURRICULUM

La Facoltà di Teologia comprende tre Cicli di studi, al termine dei quali si consegue un grado accademico: Baccellierato (STB), Licenza (STL) e Dottorato (STD). Inoltre, conferisce il Diploma in Teologia Pastorale nel Secondo Ciclo.

1. Il Primo Ciclo, della durata di tre anni, è ordinato al conseguimento del Baccellierato in Teologia. In esso vengono offerti un'iniziazione al metodo scientifico delle varie discipline teologiche e un insegnamento sintetico sulle questioni teologiche fondamentali.
2. Il Secondo Ciclo, che prevede due piani di studio – il Diploma in Teologia Pastorale (della durata di un anno) e la Licenza in Teologia (della durata di due anni) – offre la possibilità di specializzarsi in un settore della scienza teologica (Sacra Scrittura, Tomismo, Dogma e Teologia Fondamentale, Ecumenismo, Teologia Morale, Spiritualità), e mira al progresso nell'uso della metodologia scientifica.
3. Il Terzo Ciclo, che consente di conseguire il Dottorato in Teologia, è finalizzato a raggiungere la maturità nella formazione teologica, che si manifesta principalmente mediante l'elaborazione di una Tesi che contribuisca al progresso della scienza sacra.

SISTEMA ECTS

L'ECTS (European Credit Transfer System) è il sistema europeo di accumulazione e trasferimento dei crediti. È un sistema basato sul carico di lavoro richiesto per raggiungere gli obiettivi di un corso di studio (lezioni, esercitazioni, seminari, studio privato – in biblioteca o a casa – esami o altre attività di verifica), obiettivi preferibilmente espressi in termini di risultati dell'apprendimento e di competenze da acquisire. 60 crediti ECTS rappresentano il carico di lavoro corrispondente a un anno di studi a tempo pieno.

Equivalenze: 1 ora=1,5 ECTS; 2 ore=3 ECTS; 3 ore=5 ECTS; 4 ore=6 ECTS.

The Faculty of Theology offers three successive Cycles of studies, each one terminating with the conferment of an academic degree: the Baccalaureate, the Licence and the Doctorate. Moreover, the Pastoral Diploma can also be obtained in the Second Cycle.

1. The First Cycle, three years, is ordered to the attainment of the Baccalaureate in Theology, offers a synthetic presentation of all the fundamental theological questions, together with an introduction to the scientific method of the various theological disciplines. [Prerequisite: a two-year program of philosophy]
2. The Second Cycle, ordered to the acquisition of the Diploma in Pastoral Theology (one year) or the Licence in Theology (two years). The program provides the possibility of specializing in a particular sector of the theological sciences (Sacred Scripture, Thomism, Dogmatic and Fundamental Theology, Ecumenism, Moral Theology, Spirituality), and

- aims for progress in the use of scientific methodology. [Prerequisite: completion of the First Cycle program of studies]
3. The Third Cycle, two years, ordered to the attainment of the Doctorate in Theology, enables the student to reach a certain theological maturity by means especially of the preparation of a doctoral dissertation which will contribute to the progress of theological science. [Prerequisite: Licentiate in Sacred Theology]

ECTS CREDIT SYSTEM

ECTS (European Credit Transfer System) was developed by the Commission of the European Communities in order to provide common procedures to guarantee academic recognition of studies abroad.

ECTS credits are a value allocated to course units to describe the student workload required to complete them. They reflect the quantity of work each course requires in relation to the total quantity of work required to complete a full year of academic study at the institution, that is, lectures, practicals, seminars, private work - in the library or at home - and examinations or other assessment activities. In ECTS, 60 credits normally represent the workload of a year of full-time studies.

Equivalences: 1 hour=1,5 ECTS; 2 hours=3 ECTS; 3 hours=5 ECTS; 4 hours=6 ECTS.

 - B. Teologia Dogmatica. Si inizia con la Teologia Fondamentale, che è una presentazione dell'evento della Rivelazione e della sua trasmissione; quindi si espone il mistero della salvezza in tre momenti, secondo la prospettiva di Tommaso d'Aquino:
 1. Nella sua origine: il Mistero di Dio, quale principio e fine dell'economia della salvezza.
 2. Nel suo centro storico-salvifico: il Mistero di Cristo e della Chiesa, quale ricapitolazione ed espansione della stessa economia. In esso viene inserito il ruolo della B. V. Maria.
 3. Nella sua intenzionalità escatologica: il mistero della presenza sacramentale di Cristo, che fa crescere il Regno fino all'avvento della Parusia.
 - C. Teologia Morale e Spirituale. Dopo il corso di Morale Fondamentale (primo anno), negli anni successivi viene approfondita la parte Speciale, dedicata alla Grazia, alle Virtù Teologali alla vita spirituale, alle Virtù Morali. L'ultimo semestre è riservato alla Dottrina Sociale della Chiesa.
 - D. Teologia positiva. Comprende le materie che costituiscono le altre "fonti" della teologia e le applicazioni della teologia alla vita ecclesiale: Introduzione ai Padri della Chiesa, Liturgia, Storia della Chiesa, Teologia pastorale, Diritto Canonico.
- II. Le materie ausiliarie sono: Introduzione alla Teologia e alle grandi Religioni.

- III. Oltre ai corsi, lo Studente è tenuto a frequentare quattro seminari. I quali si introduce al metodo del lavoro scientifico e alle problematiche odierne.

CONSEGUIMENTO DEL GRADO

- b) Tutti gli studenti fanno un esame comprensivo di 30 minuti (orale) basato sul tesario di 30 domande.
- c) Il voto finale include la media dei corsi, l'esame comprensivo (12 ECTS) e l'elaborato finale (2 ECTS).

NOTA BENE:

Lo studente sarà ammesso all'esame comprensivo solo se:

- ha superato tutti gli esami dei corsi e seminari requisiti per il Baccellierato;
- ha ricevuto un voto sufficiente sul lavoro scritto;
- è in regola con gli adempimenti amministrativi.

TI1304 Introduzione ai Padri della Chiesa

3 ECTS

Il corso intende fornire allo studente gli strumenti essenziali per un primo orientamento nel periodo patristico. Tale obiettivo sarà proposto mediante una didattica integrata che contemperi lo studio di un manuale - unito all'offerta di una bibliografia di base - che aiuti a contestualizzare storicamente le opere dei Padri, e la lettura critica di una selezione di alcuni dei più significativi testi patristici dei primi secoli. Il percorso mirerà a riconoscere - almeno in tratteggio - la costituzione della grande Tradizione cristiana, che «è stata manifestata pubblicamente nel mondo intero [e che] può essere trovata in tutta la Chiesa da coloro che hanno voglia di vedere la verità» (Ireneo, Contro le eresie III, 3,1). SI3746 Seminario Retorico

4 ECTS

La retorica fornisce gli strumenti per parlare, argomentare, convincere, far riflettere o commuovere un pubblico in modo corretto. Dalla retorica classica di Aristotele e Cicerone, attraverso esempi ed esercizi concreti, si studieranno i principi della retorica biblica e patristica fino al Medioevo e all'epoca moderna (la retorica nella pubblicità, per esempio). L'obiettivo è sviluppare la capacità di dialogo, di argomentazione e di discussione teologica, grazie alla scoperta dei diversi elementi dell'"arte del buon parlare": la capacità di organizzare le idee, l'argomentazione, la scelta delle parole e delle espressioni da utilizzare nei diversi contesti e il modo di esprimersi.

TI1336 Virtù Teologiche

5 ECTS

Le tre virtù teologali della fede, della speranza e della carità, a partire dalla celebre enumerazione paolina (1Cor 13,13), hanno svolto, sin dagli inizi della tradizione teologica, un ruolo indispensabile in ordine alla teorizzazione della vita morale cristiana. Si tratta di abiti infusi che, elevando l'intelletto e la volontà, dispongono al Fine ultimo soprannaturale, la partecipazione alla Vita divina: la fede prelude alla visio Dei; la speranza incoraggia a realizzarla e la carità, animando l'una e l'altra, la anticipa nell'unione, introducendo l'anima nell'amore e nell'amicizia di Dio. Il corso si prefigge di fornire una presentazione sistematica delle tre virtù teologali, secondo la loro necessità e articolazione, con un approfondimento sui corrispondenti Doni dello Spirito Santo ed opposti vizi, secondo l'insuperata trattazione di san Tommaso d'Aquino, commentata in fruttuoso dialogo con la Tradizione della Chiesa e la contemporaneità.

 2. its historic center: the mystery of Christ and of the Church (Christology, Mariology, Ecclesiology)

SEZIONE BIBLICA – BIBLICAL SECTION

Responsabile – Coordinator

Prof. Justin SCHEMBRI, O.P.

SEZIONE BIBLICA – BIBLICAL SECTION

Il programma di questa Sezione abbraccia tutti i settori del campo biblico. La Sezione offre principalmente corsi che sinteticamente illustrano temi biblici e corsi d'esegesi. A titolo di necessaria introduzione – durante un periodo propedeutico – la Sezione offre corsi di lingue bibliche unitamente a corsi che illustrano l'ambiente biblico (storia, geografia, archeologia). Scopo principale dei corsi è la formazione degli studenti alla metodologia degli studi biblici e la preparazione all'insegnamento e all'animazione pastorale della Sacra Scrittura.

La durata normale del curriculum di "Licenza in Teologia Biblica" è di due anni (4 semestri – 120 ECTS). Questo vale, tuttavia, per chi, all'atto dell'iscrizione possiede i requisiti linguistici concernenti la conoscenza dell'ebraico e del greco. Chi invece è principiante, in una o in entrambe le lingue, dovrà prevedere all'inizio un semestre propedeutico di lingue antiche, (i semestri diventeranno in questa situazione 5) sulla base del programma da concordare e verificare con il Decano e il Responsabile della sessione Biblica. I corsi di lingue bibliche per i principianti (Ebraico A-B e Greco A-B) sono considerate come prerequisiti e non sono assegnati ECTS.

This programme covers all areas of biblical scholarship. It offers primarily courses that synthetically deal with biblical issues (biblical theology) and courses of biblical exegesis. During a required propaedeutic period, the programme offers courses that are auxiliary to biblical exegesis (biblical languages) along with the courses that deal with the general setting of the Bible (history, geography and archaeology). The main scope of these courses is to give the student a solid formation in biblical methodology.

The normal duration of the curriculum of "Licentiate in Biblical Theology" is two years (4 semesters). This is valid, however, for those who at the time of enrollment possess the linguistic requirements concerning the knowledge of Hebrew and Greek. Beginners in one or both languages must foresee at least a fifth semester (at the beginning of the cycle), based on the program to be agreed upon and verified with the Dean and the Coordinator of the Biblical Section. Biblical language courses for beginners (Hebrew A-B and Greek A-B) are considered as prerequisites and therefore are not assigned ECTS.

L'organizzazione dei corsi prevede per il conseguimento della Licenza:

dP3692 Introduction to dogmatic themes in St. Thomas Aquinas 3 ECTS

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

bP3715 Temi e testi apocalittici nell'Antico Testamento 3 ECTS

Il corso si propone di rintracciare in tutto l'Antico Testamento, e soprattutto nei libri profetici, quelle linee teologiche che a partire dal V secolo a.C. hanno attualizzato i testi della tradizione orientandoli in senso escatologico conferendo loro, a partire dall'epoca ellenistica, una caratterizzazione propriamente apocalittica. L'itinerario è pensato per favorire una lettura integrale e unitaria sia dell'Antico Testamento che nella sua relazione con l'evento cristiano e gli scritti neotestamentari.

bP3736 Christian Vocation in the First Centuries

3 ECTS

What does it mean to be human and what is the purpose of human beings in the cosmos? This ancient question is crucial for understanding some of the modern challenges to living the Christian vocation today. This course explores answers given by followers of Christ in the first centuries, in critical dialogue with ancient philosophy. It presents their reflections on the shape the human vocation takes in the light of God's revelation in Christ and by the transforming power of the Spirit as a source for renewed theological thought today. Particular consideration is given to St Paul, the Gospel of John, and the spirituality of the Desert Fathers.

bP3717 The Psalms and the Dead Sea Scrolls

3 ECTS

The discovery of the Dead Sea Scrolls is undoubtedly one of the major events in modern scholarship. The great number of fragments that came to light between 1947 and 1956, in fact, offer an amazing amount of information about the culture and literature of Second Temple Judaism and the beginning of Christianity – to name only the most important field of research related to the DSS. The Dead Sea manuscripts may especially allow significant insights about the transmission and reception of biblical books in the Second Temple period. In the course, therefore, special attention will be given to what DSS reveal about the way biblical books were transmitted, canonized, interpreted, and used in liturgy and personal piety. The book of Psalms will be used as a case in point.

bP3701 La funzione delle parabole evangeliche nella teologia di Matteo, Marco e Luca 3 ECTS

Si esamineranno le caratteristiche specifiche del linguaggio parabolico (distinzione tra metafora, metonimia, simbolo, tipo, similitudine, allegoria), utilizzato da Gesù come “forma” d’insegnamento sulla realtà del regno di Dio, si individueranno i possibili cambiamenti apportati nel passaggio del racconto da Gesù ai Vangeli e si analizzerà la prospettiva con la quale ciascuno degli evangelisti sinottici impiega il materiale parabolico tradizionale per configurare il proprio messaggio teologico, cristologico, ecclesiologico e morale.

bP3737 Protestant and Catholic Perspectives on Paul

3 ECTS

In the past, some of the principal differences between Protestant and Catholic theologies have resulted from and produced widely diverging interpretations of key Pauline texts. This course explains key moments in the confessional debates in their relation to different interpretations of Pauline theology, in particular concerning sin, justification, grace, salvation, the relation between divine and human action, divine sovereignty and human freedom. While the 20th century has seen a rapprochement in the theological and exegetical answers given to the confessionally dividing questions of the 16th century, this course further examines whether a more historically nuanced interpretation of Paul's theological message in its first-century context might not discern different questions being posed, not least on what it means for the church to seek unity and holiness. Thus, reading Paul in the 21st century might contribute in fresh ways to a theological renewal and towards the kind of unity to which Paul exhorted his first hearers.

bP3702 L'escatologia del Nuovo Testamento

3 ECTS

La risurrezione di Gesù è l'evento che per le comunità cristiane del I sec. d.C. ha segnato indelebilmente la storia ed ha avviato l'attesa della parusia. Il corso si prefigge di individuare le variegato concezioni dell'eschaton presenti nei testi del NT: dalla visione paolina della liberazione definitiva dell'uomo e del cosmo, alle tendenze dei Vangeli di alternanza tra l'annuncio di salvezza gratuita offerta da Dio e il giudizio divino retributivo, tra imminenza e dilazione dell'avvento del regno di Dio, tra escatologia futura e presenziale, fino alla prospettiva dell'Apocalisse giovannea, che riscrivendo i modelli visionari giudaici dipinge un quadro complessivo del futuro definitivo in funzione della storia presente.

3 ECTS

Il corso intende presentare il mistero della passione, morte e risurrezione del Signore secondo la prospettiva del Vangelo di Giovanni (Gv 18-21) mediante l'analisi esegetico-teologica delle seguenti pericopi: Gv 18, 1-12 (l'arresto di Gesù: il tradimento di Giuda, l'umanità di Pietro e la fedeltà di Gesù alla volontà del Padre); Gv 19, 17-30 (la regalità di Cristo, la fedeltà del discepolo amato e la maternità ecclesiale di Maria); Gv 20, 11-18 (l'incontro tra il Risorto e Maria Maddalena: ricerca, ascolto e riconoscimento della voce del Signore, adorazione del credente); Gv 21, 15-19 (la professione di fede di Pietro: la chiamata all'amore più grande di dare la vita).

bP3691 The Institution of the Davidic Kingship

3 ECTS

At first, we shall offer a survey of the latest developments in the field of archaeology and history of the early Iron Age period. On the literary level we will focus on three texts that describe, in their own way, the anointment of David as king: 1 Sam 16:1-13; 2 Sam 2:1-7; 2 Sam 5:1-5. We will analyze them against Deut 17:14-20, 1 Sam 8, and other similar texts. The specific aim is understanding both the prerequisites and the prerogatives of the royal figure – with a view also on David's successors – in particular his relation to the temple/s of YHWH. We also will look at the way the Chronicler and the Greek translators dealt with these texts. During the course we shall regularly discuss the theological perspectives that emerge, and how these texts shaped the ideology of the so-called royal messianism.

bS3531 The Johannine Corpus

4 ECTS

This seminar proposes to diligently analyze, examine, and reflect on selected Johannine texts: from the Gospel, the three epistles, and Revelation. The purpose is to study, learn, and understand God's creative and recreative love and life-giving truth, as revealed by the Incarnate Word. Furthermore, the seminar studies the ethical/moral demand, which the commandment of love makes on John's audience. Finally, we shall explore the reality of hope and triumph that shines through the opaque apocalyptic imageries and symbols in the Book of Revelation.

dP3692 Introduction to dogmatic themes in St. Thomas Aquinas 3 ECTS

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

mP3560 Friendship with God as Apprenticeship in the Christian Life
3 ECTS

The Scriptures portray friendship with God as an apprenticeship in Christ. Through the filial friendship established by the grace of baptism, Christians are called to participate in Christ's salvific mission. Patristic authors develop theologies of divine friendship based on this scriptural proclamation, and Thomas Aquinas will even define charity itself as friendship with God. This course is an introduction to this biblical and patristic vision and to St. Thomas' development of it.

dP3738 The symphony of the word from Irenaeus of Lyons to Verbum

Domin

3 ECTS

In Verbum Domini (2010), Pope Benedict XVI spoke of a "symphony of the Word": a single Word of God heard in varied ways, as "a symphony of many voices" (Incarnation, Creation, History of Salvation, Church's living Tradition, Sacred Scripture). This "analogy" has a strong patristic tone. It is particularly prevalent in Saint Irenaeus of Lyons, who is both the most recent Doctor of the Church (2022) and the oldest systematic theologian (180s). Following in the footsteps of this second-century Greek Father, we will reflect on a theological hermeneutic that is resolutely "Catholic" – that is, attentive to the harmony of the mysteries of faith understood in the light of an overall coherence, according to an approach to God's plan that joins the sapiential vision of the Sacra doctrina of Saint Thomas Aquinas and that of the contemporary Magisterium on "econotheology".

FL2814 Il male secondo San Tommaso d'Aquino

3 ECTS

Nella Summa theologiae in seguito alle questioni sulla creazione, opera buona del Dio buono, san Tommaso tratta di alcuni aspetti fondamentali e molto generali della questione del male : la sua natura e le sue cause generali (Ia, q. 48-49). Però, i principi stabiliti da san Tommaso in queste due questioni governano tutti gli sviluppi più particolari sulla questione del male nel concreto della storia degli angeli e degli uomini (il peccato, la pena del peccato, la Redenzione compiuta da Cristo, la penitenza...). Dopo avere ricordato i dati della Tradizione cristiana sul male, specialmente in sant'Agostino, il corso commenta in modo sistematico ciascuno degli articoli delle q. 48-49.

3 ECTS

Questo corso è una riflessione sulla "vita" di Dio, vale a dire sulle perfezioni dell'operazione immanente di Dio : scienza divina e volontà divina. Esso presenta in modo sistematico, nel loro contesto storico e dottrinale, le questioni 14-19 della Prima pars della Summa theologiae. San Tommaso vi ricapitola l'essenziale della Tradizione cristiana sull'argomento, proponendone l'intelligenza alla luce dell'alleanza fondamentale tra teologia cristiana e metafisica. Alcuni sviluppi teologici posteriori a san Tommaso vengono valutati alla luce del pensiero tomista.

3 ECTS

The goal of this course is to introduce students to the main voices of twentieth century theology, presenting their vision in the context of the theological and philosophical debates of the time, and trying to emphasize the ongoing relevance of their thought. Emphasizing the legacy of transcendental Thomism and the ressourcement movement, the class will explore the impact of these thinkers on the development of systematic theology, but also on the church's identity and self-understanding. Students will also be introduced to developments in theological methodology as exemplified by the thought of Bernard Lonergan. The course will also introduce some significant non-Catholic thinkers such as Karl Barth and Sergei Bulgakov.

dP3565 Nature and Grace Controversies in Modern Catholic Theology

3 ECTS

This course examines influential classical principles of Catholic theology in regard to the relation of grace and nature, and the way these principles were interpreted in the 20th century debates regarding nature and grace in modern Catholic theology. The class begins with a consideration of Augustine, Pelagius and Prosper of Aquitaine, and considers some of the ancient and early medieval conciliar receptions of Augustine's teaching. There is then a thorough consideration of the doctrine of St. Thomas Aquinas as a prelude to the treatment of various contrasting modern authors: Scheeben, Garrigou-Lagrange, De Lubac, Rahner, Von Balthasar. The course concludes with a brief consideration of the reception of the teaching of the Second Vatican Council (Gaudium et Spes on nature and grace) and the revival of the Thomistic tradition in the contemporary period.

dS3098 The Transmission of Faith Today

4 ECTS

More than half a century has passed since the closing of the Second Vatican Council, which was meant to bring a renewal to the faith. Within a society characterized by growing secularism, it is necessary to ask how this renewal can be realized today. In this course, the most relevant currents of thought will be analyzed in relation to the Council's objectives. The question of hermeneutics, the interpretation of the texts of both the Council and the Church's Tradition, are crucial elements contributing to the transmission of the faith.

dP3753 Presence and Sacrifice: The Eucharist in Aquinas and early modern Thomism 3 ECTS

This course will examine the concept of sacrifice in the Eucharistic theology of Thomas Aquinas, and subsequent receptions of his teaching in the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries. Although the sacrificial character of the Eucharist has been of interest to theologians throughout the Church's history, during the early sixteenth century renewed attention was given to this subject, in part because of disputes that arose between Reformed and Catholic theologians about the relationship between the Eucharistic liturgy and Christ's sacrifice on the cross. Does the Eucharistic presence itself have a sacrificial quality? Can aspects of the liturgy or dimensions of the moral life be considered a sacrifice, and if so in what way? Although itself a product of the Middle Ages, as a received text the Summa is in many ways a creature of the early modern period. This course will consider the intersection between Aquinas's Summa and a selection of its early modern interpreters, including Cajetan, Vitoria and the Salamanca school, the early Jesuits and John of St. Thomas.

dP3708 The Eucharist in St. Thomas Aquinas

3 ECTS

The course will focus on Aquinas' Eucharistic theology through a direct study of his Biblical commentaries and the Summa Theologiae. Selected references to other works of St. Thomas, such as Summa contra Gentiles, De articulis fidei et Ecclesiae sacramentis, and the Commentary on the Sentences will also be made. Dogmatic theology will represent the main standpoint of the study, but sufficient emphasis will also be reserved to the exegetical, liturgical and spiritual dimensions.

dP3716 What is salvation/human flourishing? Transformation of the theologically basic concept in the modern era

3 ECTS

The course will aim to present the ideas about human fulfillment/salvation that are contained in the key/breakthrough philosophical projects of the modern era. The philosophers who will be included (i.a. Descartes, Hume, Kant, Hegel, Kierkegaard, Nietzsche, Heidegger, Foucault) presented ideas about human fulfillment that were in some measure competitive with Christianity, in some measure flowing from it. The course will help address them critically from a theological/Catholic point of view (Thomas Aquinas). The course will belong to fundamental soteriology.

tP1879 Satana ed i demoni nella dottrina cristiana e la teologia di San Tommaso 3 ECTS

La demonologia non è un elemento centrale della dottrina cristiana. Però, essa permette delle “esperienze di pensiero” significative tanto in teologia (problema del male, natura del peccato, dottrina cristologica della Redenzione, natura del combattimento spirituale...) quanto in filosofia (azione degli esseri spirituale sulla materia e lo psichismo...). Dopo aver presentato le origini scritturistiche e le evoluzioni della demonologia cristiana, il corso tratta in modo sistematico i temi centrali della demonologia alla luce dell’insegnamento di san Tommaso d’Aquino.

dP3713 The Seven Ages of the Church

3 ECTS

This synthesis course between Fundamental Ecclesiology and Sacramental theology, attempts to give an account of a little-known traditional fact: the Church before Christ. Does the Church “People of God” begin with Christ, or with the people of Israel? Does the Church “Temple of the Spirit” begin at Pentecost, or with the Temple of Solomon, or already with the cosmic Temple in Adam? Why do the Fathers and the Medievals speak of the Ecclesia ab Abel? Are the Church of Gentile and the Church of Circumcision the same Church as the Church of the Incarnate Word? Are these figures of the Church to come in Christ, or are they already existing and already ecclesial realities of salvation but in a different sacramental regime? What is the criterion of ecclesiality and sacramentality? At the school of S. Thomas Aquinas and Cardinal Journet, we will try to establish a periodisation of the different ages of the Church throughout the history of salvation, and then we will look at the ecclesiality and sacramentality of their respective regimes, which allow us to qualify them theologically. This should provide a firmer and broader dogmatic basis for dialogue with Jews and Pagans.

mP3745 Religione e Religioni in San Tommaso D'Aquino 3 ECTS

Il corso ha lo scopo di fornire un'introduzione sistematica al concetto di religione secondo san Tommaso d'Aquino. La collocazione della religione all'interno della trattazione morale (nello specifico, la religione come parte potenziale della virtù cardinale della giustizia) permette di ricollocare adeguatamente il fenomeno religioso nell'orizzonte del bene, unitamente a quello della verità. Questa forma mentis integrale che anima la trattazione dell'Aquinato assume un valore inestimabile per ricondurre la stessa esperienza del sacro, che sia o meno all'interno o meno di un orizzonte religioso ben definito, all'uomo in quanto tale, più che all'uno o all'altro contesto sociale o storico; al contempo, essa svela quanta pertinenza e autorevolezza abbiano la Rivelazione, il magistero e il pensiero cristiano nei confronti di ogni uomo, in ogni luogo e in ogni tempo. Nello specifico, fatta una introduzione alla disciplina e al tema, si prenderà in esame soprattutto l'ampia sezione sulla virtù di religione contenuta nella Summa Theologiae, commentata con debite attualizzazioni in dialogo con la contemporaneità.

dP3632 Dire Dio nella Postmodernità: la Proposta della Teologia Evangelica 3 ECTS

Il XX secolo e gli inizi del XXI testimoniano un grande disagio delle chiese cristiane in ordine al loro rapporto con il mondo e un'accentuata difficoltà di "dire Dio" di fronte all'allontanamento delle masse dalla pratica religiosa, alle grandi guerre, alla secolarizzazione occidentale. Le comunità della Riforma hanno reagito a tali sfide elaborando un pensiero teologico di particolare originalità. Il corso vuole mettere a fuoco questa proposta, richiamando in modo particolare il contributo di K. Barth, D. Bonhoeffer e J. Moltmann, dei quali saranno presentati il nucleo teologico e l'attualità della proposta.

mS3314 The Crisis of Faith and the Crisis of Morals 4 ECTS

The current crisis of morals within the Church – including the abuses cases– is one of the biggest challenges. What can be done? Will it be necessary to change the structure of the Church? During the long pontificate of John Paul II and Benedict XVI several answers were given, even though they weren't always accepted and sometimes they were not even well known. Key aspects of the crisis of morals and its origins are going to be analysed, with a special emphasis on the principles of morality. This course provides an overview of the most important challenges and offers valid principles within the context of the actual challenges.

4 ECTS

Lo scopo di questo seminario e' di introdurre gli studenti ad esplorare le radici storiche, il significato teologico e l'impatto storico del concilio di Nicea, con particolare attenzione all'aspetto cristologico. Partendo da un'analisi della tradizione cristologica precedente al concilio, il corso cercherà di ricostruire la geneologia filosofica e scritturale del dogma niceno della consustanzialita' del Padre e del Figlio, anche attraverso la lettura degli scritti apologetici di Sant'Atanasio. In occasione del 1700 anniversario della definizione conciliare, il corso si propone di riflettere anche sul valore della Cristologia di Nicea per l'unita' dei cristiani, toccando quindi il dialogo ecumenico con le chiese orientali e le comunita' cristiane nate alla riforma.

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

eP3369 Medieval Oriental Christianity and Islam: Dialogue and Apologetics
3 ECTS

The purpose of this course is to give an overall view of theological encounters between Christians and Muslims in the Middle and Near East between the 8th and 12th centuries. In spite of severe handicaps, Christians in the East have for centuries found a modus vivendi with their Muslim neighbours. Far from becoming atrophied Christian theological thought found new ways of communicating itself so as to serve as a basis for interreligious dialogue and inculturation. Such an ancient tradition of Christian apologetics and dialogue with Islam could help inspire today's Christians, especially in the West, in their encounter with Muslims as well as with the secular world.

tP3353 Seeking Truth: Thomas Aquinas and Islamic Thought in Dialogue
3 ECTS

In an age when Christian thinkers were rediscovering the treasures of ancient philosophy, and more particularly of Aristotle, Thomas had the great merit of giving pride of place to the harmony which exists between faith and reason." (n. 43). In the light of this statement this course proposes to explore those questions addressed by Islamic philosophers and which have found a response in the writings of Thomas Aquinas by way of endorsement or criticism, both of which took place in an atmosphere of dynamic engagement with the issues addressed.

eP3297 Catholic Principles of Ecumenism
3 ECTS

The course is designed to provide a survey of the perspective of the Catholic Church towards the ecumenical movement. It begins with a historical overview of the stance of the Church before Vatican II and continues with the ecclesiological basis (Lumen Gentium) of the shift realized by the Council. It then offers a Biblical basis drawing from Old and New Testaments. The core of the course is constituted by a comprehensive presentation of the Catholic principles of ecumenism contained in the decree Unitatis Redintegratio and expounded in the post-conciliar Magisterium. It presents different aspects of the ecumenical engagement of the Church and indicates main areas of ongoing divergence in matters of doctrine and ethics. Upon completing the course students should be able to articulate the Catholic principles on ecumenism and to actively engage in the search for Christian unity following them. Methodology will include in-class or/and online lectures using electronic material (Power Point presentations, video clips), primary and secondary readings, written material provided by the lecturer.

eP3540 Primacy and Synodality in the Ecumenical Dialogues 3 ECTS

The nature of primacy and synodality and their mutual relationship is a theological question of prime importance today, both within the Churches and in their ecumenical dialogues. Do these two concepts belong to the essence of the Church? How can we distinguish between synodality, collegiality and the communal dimension of the Church? How do they ensure communion between the Churches? To what extent do Christians accept a universal primacy, and why is synodality crucial for Christian unity and the Catholic Church's ecumenical commitment? These are the questions that the course will address on the basis of recent ecumenical dialogue documents.

eS3696 Christianity and the religions of India

4 ECTS

The purpose of this class is to introduce the students to the religious traditions of India and explore their impact on the historical trajectory of Christianity in the Indian subcontinent. The first few sessions will map the history of Hinduism as a tradition characterized by internal pluralism and diversity, starting from the legacy of the Veda and the Upanisadic turn, looking at the Bhavad Gita and the Ramayana, and finally considering the emergence of devotional Hinduism. The second part of the course will introduce the emergence of Buddhism and Jainism as alternative Indian religions within the Indian context. Finally, students will explore intersection between these different traditions and India's specific traditions of Christianity. During this seminar, students will read Hindu and Buddhist texts with the help of the professor, as well as some secondary literature.

The goal of this course is to introduce students to the theology and the spirituality of the Philokalia, using the classic English translation by palmerm Sherrard and Ware, while occasionally also looking at the original texts. The class will outline the historical development of Philokalic thought from its Origenist beginnings in the Evagrian tradition, the Chalcedonian turn and the theology of Maximos the Confessor, the role of the prayer of the heart, and the full flowering of the hesychastic tradition in the thought of Gregory Palamas. The class will also touch on the reception of the Philokalai in the Slavic and Russian world. The course will show the continued significance and relevance of the vision of the Philokalia for a contemporary Catholic audience, which can continue to draw on the intellectual and spiritual sources of the undivided church, as well as some of the voices in the epirido following the 1054 schism.

bP3737 Protestant and Catholic Perspectives on Paul

3 ECTS

In the past, some of the principal differences between Protestant and Catholic theologies have resulted from and produced widely diverging interpretations of key Pauline texts. This course explains key moments in the confessional debates in their relation to different interpretations of Pauline theology, in particular concerning sin, justification, grace, salvation, the relation between divine and human action, divine sovereignty and human freedom. While the 20th century has seen a rapprochement in the theological and exegetical answers given to the confessionally dividing questions of the 16th century, this course further examines whether a more historically nuanced interpretation of Paul's theological message in its first-century context might not discern different questions being posed, not least on what it means for the church to seek unity and holiness. Thus, reading Paul in the 21st century might contribute in fresh ways to a theological renewal and towards the kind of unity to which Paul exhorted his first hearers.

eP3729 Ministry and Ministries in the Church: Confessional Approaches
3 ECTS

All Christians have their own charismata for the service of God and the world as well as for the building up of the Church (Rom 12:4-8; 1 Cor 12:4-31). Through baptism, they all constitute the one priestly people of God (1 Pet 2:5-9). The NT also shows how among the ministries a special ministry emerged, which was understood as standing in the succession of the Apostles sent by Christ. The course intends to explain the different approaches to the ordained ministry and the developments concerning "ministries" in the history of the Church. What is the dogmatic definition of ordained ministry? How does it affect the unity and communion of the Church? How does ordained ministry relate to other church offices and services in the Church? What are the different approaches of the various Christian traditions on this topic? How the relationship between the one special ministry and the various other ministries and services in the church is defined theologically? The course will explore the most critical and differing positions.

eS3697 Nicea in prospettiva ecumenica 4 ECTS

Lo scopo di questo seminario e' di introdurre gli studenti ad esplorare le radici storiche, il significato teologico e l'impatto storico del concilio di Nicea, con particolare attenzione all'aspetto cristologico. Partendo da un'analisi della tradizione cristologica precedente al concilio, il corso cerchera' di ricostruire la geneologia filosofica e scritturale del dogma niceno della consustanzialita' del Padre e del Figlio, anche attraverso la lettura degli scritti apologetici di Sant'Atanasio. In occasione del 1700 anniversario della definizione conciliare, il corso si propone di riflettere anche sul valore della Cristologia di Nicea per l'unita' dei cristiani, toccando quindi il dialogo ecumenico con le chiese orientali e le comunita' cristiane nate alla riforma.

SEZIONE MORALE – MORAL SECTION

Prof. Kevin O'REILLY O.P.

Lo studente nel quinquennio filosofico-teologico istituzionale si è appropriato delle nozioni fondamentali del sapere teologico. Il biennio di specializzazione in morale intende guidarlo sulla via di un deciso approfondimento personale di questa parte della teologia sistematica. Gli viene pertanto richiesto di sviluppare sia la propria originalità di giovane ricercatore (propedeutica necessaria all'eventuale futuro lavoro dottorale), sia la capacità di trasmettere l'etica cristiana in modo corretto dal punto di vista metodologico e contenutistico.

Per aiutarlo in questo duplice compito, la nostra scuola gli offre un corpo docente ed un programma che si rifanno alla tradizione tomista, partendo dalla II Parte della Summa Theologiae e seguendo l'interpretazione innovativa sia del Catechismo della Chiesa Cattolica (Parte terza: La vita in Cristo; Sez. prima: La vocazione dell'uomo: la vita nello Spirito), sia dell'enciclica Veritatis Splendor (con le quattro aree strutturali ivi indicate: la libertà e la legge - la coscienza e la verità - la scelta fondamentale dei comportamenti concreti - l'atto morale).

I corsi e i seminari afferiscono concretamente a uno o a più dei seguenti settori: biblico-storico, morale fondamentale, morali speciali, magistero morale. alcuni insegnamenti sono mutuati da altri programmi della PUST per completare sia l'offerta che la possibilità di scelta.

In the five-year institutional curriculum of philosophy and theology the student will have acquired the basic notions of theological knowledge. The two year curriculum of specialization in moral theology is meant to guide him on the road towards a personal and deeper knowledge of this part of systematic theology. He is therefore required to develop his capabilities for carrying out original research, which is absolutely necessary for eventual doctoral work, and for correctly conveying Christian ethics from the point of view of both method and content.

To help him in this dual task our Faculty has a teaching staff and offers a programme that adhere to the thomistic tradition. Taking Part II of Summa Theologiae as the starting point, the programme follows the innovative interpretation of Catechism of the Catholic Church (Part Three: Life in Christ; Section One: Man's Vocation: Life in the Spirit) and of Veritatis Splendor (the four areas: liberty and the law - conscience and truth - the fundamental choice in concrete behaviour - the moral act).

The courses and seminars deal concretely with one or more of the following areas: biblical-historical, fundamental morals, specialized morals, moral magisterium. The programme will include courses from other programmes offered by the University to ensure a comprehensive offer and the possibility of choice.

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

The Apostle Paul says in his letter to the Galatians, "I have been crucified with Christ, and I live now not with my own life, but with the life of Christ who lives in me." (Ga 2:19) The gift of the grace of Christ, heals, transforms and perfects human nature. This course will study the human person created in the image of God, redeemed in Christ, and sanctified by the gift of the Holy Spirit. Special attention will be given to the relationship between human nature and the new life of grace in Christ.

mP3741 Transhumanism and the Ethics of Emerging Technologies
3 ECTS

The course gives an overview of the contemporary transhumanist movement and addresses the ethics of a wide range of emerging technologies such as gene editing, artificial intelligence, pharmaceuticals, and body-machine interfaces. It provides a historical background to the movement's main thinkers and highlights those traditions of postmodernism, secularism, liberalism, anthropological dualism, and expressive individualism that converge in their work. The course offers a detailed philosophical and theological evaluation of proposals for physical, cognitive, emotional, moral, and life span enhancements. It argues that the Thomistic tradition of natural law virtue ethics can assimilate the positive aspects of contemporary Transhumanism and correct the limitations of the movement. The course also compares the visions of soteriology and eschatology presented in Transhumanism and the Catholic moral tradition.

dP3565 Nature and Grace Controversies in Modern Catholic Theology
3 ECTS

This course examines influential classical principles of Catholic theology in regard to the relation of grace and nature, and the way these principles were interpreted in the 20th century debates regarding nature and grace in modern Catholic theology. The class begins with a consideration of Augustine, Pelagius and Prosper of Aquitaine, and considers some of the ancient and early medieval conciliar receptions of Augustine's teaching. There is then a thorough consideration of the doctrine of St. Thomas Aquinas as a prelude to the treatment of various contrasting modern authors: Scheeben, Garrigou-Lagrange, De Lubac, Rahner, Von Balthasar. The course concludes with a brief consideration of the reception of the teaching of the Second Vatican Council (Gaudium et Spes on nature and grace) and the revival of the Thomistic tradition in the contemporary period.

A treatment of grace, that is to say, the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in the believer, along with an examination of the theological and infused virtues, as well as of the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, follows. As the title of the course indicates, the aim is to show forth the transforming effects of grace.

mP3579 Re-reading Veritatis Splendor

3 ECTS

In 1993 Pope John Paul II published Veritatis Splendor with the purpose of addressing the foundational principles of moral theology in response to a crisis caused by "beguiling doctrines" which undermined these principles. A few decades later the document still stands as a bulwark against moral errors. After examining the historical context of the document, this course will analyze the principles which safeguard "sound teaching" (VS 5; 2 Tim 4:3).

Veritatis Splendor 46-50 emphasizes "the place of the human body in questions of natural law" (48). This course elucidates the Church's teaching on issues such as abortion, contraception, and homosexual acts by showing how it is grounded in an understanding of the human person as psychosomatically constituted. It also demonstrates how the anthropology of detractors of Church teaching is in effect dualistic.

mP3745 Religione e Religioni in San Tommaso D'Aquino 3 ECTS

Il corso ha lo scopo di fornire un'introduzione sistematica al concetto di religione secondo san Tommaso d'Aquino. La collocazione della religione all'interno della trattazione morale (nello specifico, la religione come parte potenziale della virtù cardinale della giustizia) permette di ricollocare adeguatamente il fenomeno religioso nell'orizzonte del bene, unitamente a quello della verità.

Questa forma mentis integrale che anima la trattazione dell'Aquinata assume un valore inestimabile per ricondurre la stessa esperienza del sacro, che sia o meno all'interno o meno di un orizzonte religioso ben definito, all'uomo in quanto tale, più che all'uno o all'altro contesto sociale o storico; al contempo, essa svela quanta pertinenza e autorevolezza abbiano la Rivelazione, il magistero e il pensiero cristiano nei confronti di ogni uomo, in ogni luogo e in ogni tempo. Nello specifico, fatta una introduzione alla disciplina e al tema, si prenderà in esame soprattutto l'ampia sezione sulla virtù di religione contenuta nella Summa Theologiae, commentata con debite attualizzazioni in dialogo con la contemporaneità.

Desert and Patristic Saints therefore focused on the traits of character, known as the Gateway virtues (charity and its supporting moral virtues), that Christians are called to develop if they wish to grow in the Christian life. This course will thus study those virtues and vices.

mS3314 The Crisis of Faith and the Crisis of Morals

4 ECTS

The current crisis of morals within the Church – including the abuses cases– is one of the biggest challenges. What can be done? Will it be necessary to change the structure of the Church? During the long pontificate of John Paul II and Benedict XVI several answers were given, even though they weren't always accepted and sometimes they were not even well known. Key aspects of the crisis of morals and its origins are going to be analysed, with a special emphasis on the principles of morality. This course provides an overview of the most important challenges and offers valid principles within the context of the actual challenges.

4 ECTS

Lo scopo di questo seminario e' di introdurre gli studenti ad esplorare le radici storiche, il significato teologico e l'impatto storico del concilio di Nicea, con particolare attenzione all'aspetto cristologico. Partendo da un'analisi della tradizione cristologica precedente al concilio, il corso cercherà di ricostruire la geneologia filosofica e scritturale del dogma niceno della consustanzialità del Padre e del Figlio, anche attraverso la lettura degli scritti apologetici di Sant'Atanasio. In occasione del 1700 anniversario della definizione conciliare, il corso si propone di riflettere anche sul valore della Cristologia di Nicea per l'unità dei cristiani, toccando quindi il dialogo ecumenico con le chiese orientali e le comunità cristiane nate alla riforma.

dP3692 Introduction to dogmatic themes in St. Thomas Aquinas 3 ECTS

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

mP3560 Friendship with God as Apprenticeship in the Christian Life

3 ECTS

The Scriptures portray friendship with God as an apprenticeship in Christ. Through the filial friendship established by the grace of baptism, Christians are called to participate in Christ's salvific mission. Patristic authors develop theologies of divine friendship based on this scriptural proclamation, and Thomas Aquinas will even define charity itself as friendship with God. This course is an introduction to this biblical and patristic vision and to St. Thomas' development of it.

mP3741 Transhumanism and the Ethics of Emerging Technologies

3 ECTS

The course gives an overview of the contemporary transhumanist movement and addresses the ethics of a wide range of emerging technologies such as gene editing, artificial intelligence, pharmaceuticals, and body-machine interfaces. It provides a historical background to the movement's main thinkers and highlights those traditions of postmodernism, secularism, liberalism, anthropological dualism, and expressive individualism that converge in their work. The course offers a detailed philosophical and theological evaluation of proposals for physical, cognitive, emotional, moral, and life span enhancements. It argues that the Thomistic tradition of natural law virtue ethics can assimilate the positive aspects of contemporary Transhumanism and correct the limitations of the movement. The course also compares the visions of soteriology and eschatology presented in Transhumanism and the Catholic moral tradition.

bP3736 Christian Vocation 3 ECTS

What does it mean to be human and what is the purpose of human beings in the cosmos? This ancient question is crucial for understanding some of the modern challenges to living the Christian vocation today. This course explores answers given by followers of Christ in the first centuries, in critical dialogue with ancient philosophy. It presents their reflections on the shape the human vocation takes in the light of God's revelation in Christ and by the transforming power of the Spirit as a source for renewed theological thought today. Particular consideration is given to St Paul, the Gospel of John, and the spirituality of the Desert Fathers.

sP3743 Psicologia e Teologia in Dialogo

3 ECTS

Il corso analizzerà quale reciproco apporto potranno offrirsi una teologia e una psicologia che non siano chiuse in se stesse, e che perciò sappiano farsi aperte e interrogative del mistero, l'una in ascolto dell'altra, insieme in ascolto di Dio. Il presupposto di partenza è che la teologia può offrire alla psicologia l'orizzonte ultimo di senso che attinge a Dio, mistero del mondo, quale è stato rivelato in Gesù Cristo e che la psicologia, da parte sua, offrirà alla teologia quel senso di realismo e di concretezza nei confronti della situazione umana nel mondo, che la libera da ogni possibile tentazione ideologica e la spinge a farsi coscienza critica della prassi personale ed ecclesiale. mP3070 The Transformation Wrought By Grace According to St. Thomas 3 ECTS

The course begins by highlighting how St. Thomas grounds the moral life in the intra-Trinitarian life of knowing and loving. A treatment of grace, that is to say, the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in the believer, along with an examination of the theological and infused virtues, as well as of the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, follows. As the title of the course indicates, the aim is to show forth the transforming effects of grace.

sS3385 Acedia, Desolation, and Mid-Life Crisis: resources for meeting common spiritual challenges 4 ECTS

The spiritual affliction known as acedia has been called “a divisive and debilitating force” which can undermine the lives of the most committed pastors (Pope Francis) and “the deepest crisis in the Church today” (Cdl. Schönborn). But what is the difference between this ‘acedia’ and similar experiences like desolation, depression, or a mid-life crisis? This seminar will allow students to better grasp the nature, causes, and remedies of a few common and often related spiritual trials. Research in classic and contemporary sources will enable students to understand such trials and to serve others with greater competence and sensitivity.

sP2518 History of Spirituality, Part II: Renaissance to Post-Vatican II.
3 ECTS

This course studies the development of spirituality from the Renaissance to the contemporary era. It visits the lives and works of various key figures from Christian spirituality in light of the cultural, scientific, philosophical and theological movements that shaped the Church (i) in and around the Renaissance movement, (ii) in the build up and outcome of the Council of Trent, (iii) in the renewal of the Second Vatican Council. The objective is to gain a better understanding on how the nature and role of spirituality in the Catholic Church was shaped across these periods by various factors such as the emergence of new or reformed religious orders, the missionary efforts for the expansion of the Church, the theological schools of the 18th and 19th century and the renewal of theology in the 20th century. By the end of this credit, the student will be able to identify, access and contextualise key figures of Christian spirituality against their respective cultural, philosophical and theological backgrounds.

CORSI – COURSESsP3710 La missione cristiana: problemi e interpretazioni lungo la storia
3 ECTS

La missione è nella natura della Chiesa, ma è indubbiamente una natura problematica. Nel corso dei secoli il mandato evangelico si è rivelato forte e controverso, richiedendo una costante riflessione sulle sue motivazioni, dinamiche e idee principali. Non sorprende, quindi, che nella storia della Chiesa si possano elencare tutta una serie di conflitti sorti nella sua costante volontà di evangelizzare. L'obiettivo di questo corso è analizzare e discutere quelli più rilevanti. Idee come "l'inculturazione" della fede nella Tarda antichità, la crisi dei Catari o le Crociate nel Basso Medioevo, le nuove missioni in Età Moderna sotto i Patronati reali e l'ascesa della Congregazione di Propaganda Fide, la forte polemica De Ritis o la formazione di un clero autoctono sono alcuni dei momenti specifici che analizzeremo.

3 ECTS

The goal of this course is to introduce students to the theology and the spirituality of the Philokalia, using the classic English translation by palmerm Sherrard and Ware, while occasionally also looking at the original texts. The class will outline the historical development of Philokalic thought from its Origenist beginnings in the Evagrian tradition, the Chalcedonian turn and the theology of Maximos the Confessor, the role of the prayer of the heart, and the full flowering of the hesychastic tradition in the thought of Gregory Palamas. The class will also touch on the reception of the Philokalia in the Slavic and Russian world. The course will show the continued significance and relevance of the vision of the Philokalia for a contemporary Catholic audience, which can continue to draw on the intellectual and spiritual sources of the undivided church, as well as some of the voices in the eprido following the 1054 schism.

sP3731 Contemplation and the Cross: A Thomistic Analysis of the Spiritual Life 3 ECTS

This course examines the nature of the Catholic spiritual life, based on a causal analysis of the spiritual life making use of the theology of Thomas Aquinas and other major theological figures. What is the spiritual life of grace essentially? What are its origins and what is its purpose? What are its effects? How or in what 'material way' is it lived? This course looks above all at the revelation of the Trinity in the mystery of the crucifixion as the essence or "formal cause" of the spiritual life, involving in turn our conformity to Christ, in his divinity and his humanity, as it is revealed in his Paschal mystery.

sP3725 Gateway Virtues and Capital Sins

3 ECTS

The Early Saints of the desert saw that growth in the Christian life can be impeded by seven (or eight) primary sins that were capable of killing one's spiritual life. The tradition has called these the deadly or capital sins. The Desert and Patristic Saints therefore focused on the traits of character, known as the Gateway virtues (charity and its supporting moral virtues), that Christians are called to develop if they wish to grow in the Christian life. This course will thus study those virtues and vices.

eS3697 Nicea in prospettiva ecumenica 4 ECTS

Lo scopo di questo seminario è di introdurre gli studenti ad esplorare le radici storiche, il significato teologico e l'impatto storico del concilio di Nicea, con particolare attenzione all'aspetto cristologico. Partendo da un'analisi della tradizione cristologica precedente al concilio, il corso cercherà di ricostruire la geneologia filosofica e scritturale del dogma niceno della consustanzialità del Padre e del Figlio, anche attraverso la lettura degli scritti apologetici di Sant'Atanasio. In occasione del 1700 anniversario della definizione conciliare, il corso si propone di riflettere anche sul valore della Cristologia di Nicea per l'unità dei cristiani, toccando quindi il dialogo ecumenico con le chiese orientali e le comunità cristiane nate alla riforma.

SEZIONE TOMISTICA – THOMISTIC SECTION

Responsabile – Coordinator

Prof. Simon GAINÉ, O.P.

Lo scopo precipuo della Sezione Tomistica è l'approfondimento della dottrina di san Tommaso e della Scolastica, mediante la contestualizzazione storica, l'analisi testuale e il confronto con le problematiche attuali. Per una comprensione ampia e prismatica del pensiero dell'Aquinate, i corsi si snodano lungo quattro ambiti: 1. storico (la vita e il tempo di san Tommaso; le correnti teologiche e i saperi scientifici dell'epoca; le fonti e lo strumentario; il pensiero islamico ed ebraico; la storia del tomismo); 2. dottrinale (i trattati dogmatici; i trattati morali; la struttura filosofica e l'epistemologia); 3. esegetico (i commenti biblici e la produzione sermoniale); 4. spirituale (gli scritti spirituali; la dimensione liturgica; l'estetica e la poetica).

Con il permesso del Decano, gli studenti possono integrare il loro programma di studio inserendo corsi presi da altre Facoltà con riguardo particolare alla Facoltà di Filosofia.

The purpose of the Thomistic Section is to uncover the depth and richness of the doctrine of St. Thomas Aquinas and the Scholastics, through the study of the historical context in which Aquinas worked, textual analysis, and the application of Thomistic principles and thought to contemporary issues. For a full and comprehensive understanding of the thought of Aquinas, the courses of the Thomistic Section develop along four paths: 1. Historical (the life and times of St. Thomas; the theological currents, scientific knowledge, Islamic and Hebraic thought of the epoch; the fonts, sources and theological tools utilized by Aquinas; and, the history of Thomism); 2. Doctrinal (the dogmatic and moral treatises of St. Thomas; and, Aquinas' underlying philosophical structure and epistemology); 3. Exegetical (St. Thomas' Biblical commentaries and homilies); 4. Spiritual (the spiritual, liturgical, aesthetic and poetic writings of St. Thomas). With the Dean's permission students may incorporate courses from other University programs and specializations, particularly from The Faculty of Philosophy.

dP3692 Introduction to dogmatic themes in St. Thomas Aquinas 3 ECTS

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

mP3560 Friendship with God as Apprenticeship in the Christian Life
3 ECTS

The Scriptures portray friendship with God as an apprenticeship in Christ. Through the filial friendship established by the grace of baptism, Christians are called to participate in Christ's salvific mission. Patristic authors develop theologies of divine friendship based on this scriptural proclamation, and Thomas Aquinas will even define charity itself as friendship with God. This course is an introduction to this biblical and patristic vision and to St. Thomas' development of it.

FL2814 Il male secondo San Tommaso d'Aquino3 ECTS

Nella Summa theologiae in seguito alle questioni sulla creazione, opera buona del Dio buono, san Tommaso tratta di alcuni aspetti fondamentali e molto generali della questione del male : la sua natura e le sue cause generali (Ia, q. 48-49). Però, i principi stabiliti da san Tommaso in queste due questioni governano tutti gli sviluppi più particolari sulla questione del male nel concreto della storia degli angeli e degli uomini (il peccato, la pena del peccato, la Redenzione compiuta da Cristo, la penitenza...). Dopo avere ricordato i dati della Tradizione cristiana sul male, specialmente in sant'Agostino, il corso commenta in modo sistematico ciascuno degli articoli delle q. 48-49.

3 ECTS

Questo corso è una riflessione sulla "vita" di Dio, vale a dire sulle perfezioni dell'operazione immanente di Dio : scienza divina e volontà divina. Esso presenta in modo sistematico, nel loro contesto storico e dottrinale, le questioni 14-19 della Prima pars della Summa theologiae. San Tommaso vi ricapitola l'essenziale della Tradizione cristiana sull'argomento, proponendone l'intelligenza alla luce dell'alleanza fondamentale tra teologia cristiana e metafisica. Alcuni sviluppi teologici posteriori a san Tommaso vengono valutati alla luce del pensiero tomista.

dP3565 Nature and Grace Controversies in Modern Catholic Theology
3 ECTS

This course examines influential classical principles of Catholic theology in regard to the relation of grace and nature, and the way these principles were interpreted in the 20th century debates regarding nature and grace in modern Catholic theology. The class begins with a consideration of Augustine, Pelagius and Prosper of Aquitaine, and considers some of the ancient and early medieval conciliar receptions of Augustine's teaching. There is then a thorough consideration of the doctrine of St. Thomas Aquinas as a prelude to the treatment of various contrasting modern authors: Scheeben, Garrigou-Lagrange, De Lubac, Rahner, Von Balthasar. The course concludes with a brief consideration of the reception of the teaching of the Second Vatican Council (Gaudium et Spes on nature and grace) and the revival of the Thomistic tradition in the contemporary period.

3 ECTS

The course begins by highlighting how St. Thomas grounds the moral life in the intra-Trinitarian life of knowing and loving. A treatment of grace, that is to say, the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in the believer, along with an examination of the theological and infused virtues, as well as of the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, follows. As the title of the course indicates, the aim is to show forth the transforming effects of grace.

dP3753 Presence and Sacrifice: The Eucharist in Aquinas and early modern Thomism 3 ECTS

This course will examine the concept of sacrifice in the Eucharistic theology of Thomas Aquinas, and subsequent receptions of his teaching in the sixteenth and early seventeenth centuries. Although the sacrificial character of the Eucharist has been of interest to theologians throughout the Church's history, during the early sixteenth century renewed attention was given to this subject, in part because of disputes that arose between Reformed and Catholic theologians about the relationship between the Eucharistic liturgy and Christ's sacrifice on the cross. Does the Eucharistic presence itself have a sacrificial quality? Can aspects of the liturgy or dimensions of the moral life be considered a sacrifice, and if so in what way? Although itself a product of the Middle Ages, as a received text the Summa is in many ways a creature of the early modern period. This course will consider the intersection between Aquinas's Summa and a selection of its early modern interpreters, including Cajetan, Vitoria and the Salamanca school, the early Jesuits and John of St. Thomas.

dP3708 The Eucharist in St. Thomas Aquinas 3 ECTS

The course will focus on Aquinas' Eucharistic theology through a direct study of his Biblical commentaries and the Summa Theologiae. Selected references to other works of St. Thomas, such as Summa contra Gentiles, De articulis fidei et Ecclesiae sacramentis, and the Commentary on the Sentences will also be made. Dogmatic theology will represent the main standpoint of the study, but sufficient emphasis will also be reserved to the exegetical, liturgical and spiritual dimensions.

tP1879 Satana ed i demoni nella dottrina cristiana e la teologia di San Tommaso
3 ECTS

La demonologia non è un elemento centrale della dottrina cristiana. Però, essa permette delle "esperienze di pensiero" significative tanto in teologia (problema del male, natura del peccato, dottrina cristologica della Redenzione, natura del combattimento spirituale...) quanto in filosofia (azione degli esseri spirituale sulla materia e lo psichismo...). Dopo aver presentato le origini scritturistiche e le evoluzioni della demonologia cristiana, il corso tratta in modo sistematico i temi centrali della demonologia alla luce dell'insegnamento di san Tommaso d'Aquino.

sP3731 Contemplation and the Cross: A Thomistic Analysis of the Spiritual Life 3 ECTS

This course examines the nature of the Catholic spiritual life, based on a causal analysis of the spiritual life making use of the theology of Thomas Aquinas and other major theological figures. What is the spiritual life of grace essentially? What are its origins and what is its purpose? What are its effects? How or in what 'material way' is it lived? This course looks above all at the revelation of the Trinity in the mystery of the crucifixion as the essence or "formal cause" of the spiritual life, involving in turn our conformity to Christ, in his divinity and his humanity, as it is revealed in his Paschal mystery.

mP3745 Religione e Religioni in San Tommaso D'Aquino 3 ECTS

Il corso ha lo scopo di fornire un'introduzione sistematica al concetto di religione secondo san Tommaso d'Aquino. La collocazione della religione all'interno della trattazione morale (nello specifico, la religione come parte potenziale della virtù cardinale della giustizia) permette di ricollocare adeguatamente il fenomeno religioso nell'orizzonte del bene, unitamente a quello della verità. Questa forma mentis integrale che anima la trattazione dell'Aquinate assume un valore inestimabile per ricondurre la stessa esperienza del sacro, che sia o meno all'interno o meno di un orizzonte religioso ben definito, all'uomo in quanto tale, più che all'uno o all'altro contesto sociale o storico; al contempo, essa svela quanta pertinenza e autorevolezza abbiano la Rivelazione, il magistero e il pensiero cristiano nei confronti di ogni uomo, in ogni luogo e in ogni tempo. Nello specifico, fatta una introduzione alla disciplina e al tema, si prenderà in esame soprattutto l'ampia sezione sulla virtù di religione contenuta nella Summa Theologiae, commentata con debite attualizzazioni in dialogo con la contemporaneità.

The main themes will include: the possibility of the acceptance of the notion of species transformism on the side of the classical metaphysics and creation theology, the question of whether God creates through evolution, the relation among evolutionary biological and theological anthropogenesis, the question of relevance and plausibility of creationist and intelligent design (ID) movements, the history of the reception of the theory of evolution in the Catholic Church, the contemporary and future theological aspects of the evolution of the human species.

sP3725 Gateway Virtues and Capital Sins

3 ECTS

The Early Saints of the desert saw that growth in the Christian life can be impeded by seven (or eight) primary sins that were capable of killing one's spiritual life. The tradition has called these the deadly or capital sins. The Desert and Patristic Saints therefore focused on the traits of character, known as the Gateway virtues (charity and its supporting moral virtues), that Christians are called to develop if they wish to grow in the Christian life. This course will thus study those virtues and vices.

eS3697 Nicea in prospettiva ecumenica

4 ECTS

Lo scopo di questo seminario e' di introdurre gli studenti ad esplorare le radici storiche, il significato teologico e l'impatto storico del concilio di Nicea, con particolare attenzione all'aspetto cristologico. Partendo da un'analisi della tradizione cristologica precedente al concilio, il corso cercherà di ricostruire la geneologia filosofica e scritturale del dogma niceno della consustanzialità del Padre e del Figlio, anche attraverso la lettura degli scritti apologetici di Sant'Atanasio. In occasione del 1700 anniversario della definizione conciliare, il corso si propone di riflettere anche sul valore della Cristologia di Nicea per l'unità dei cristiani, toccando quindi il dialogo ecumenico con le chiese orientali e le comunità cristiane nate alla riforma.

CORSI OBBLIGATORI

mP3560 Friendship with God as Apprenticeship in the Christian Life 3 ECTS

The Scriptures portray friendship with God as an apprenticeship in Christ. Through the filial friendship established by the grace of baptism, Christians are called to participate in Christ's salvific mission. Patristic authors develop theologies of divine friendship based on this scriptural proclamation, and Thomas Aquinas will even define charity itself as friendship with God. This course is an introduction to this biblical and patristic vision and to St. Thomas' development of it.

dP3692 Introduction to dogmatic themes in St. Thomas Aquinas 3 ECTS

This course presents a selection of dogmatic themes treated by St. Thomas Aquinas within the framework of his understanding of Sacra Doctrina. The themes are chosen based on three criteria: St. Thomas's originality when dealing with it; the significance of its contribution to theology; and the importance of its place within the 'connection of mysteries'. Special attention will be afforded to Aquinas's Christology inasmuch as all themes tie into it in some manner. Coursework will be mainly based on St. Thomas's own texts.

sP3769 Persuasive Theological Writing: Spiritual Memoir and Reflection
3 ECTS

Stories about our spiritual experiences can be greatly inspiring to current Catholics and to people exploring Catholicism. Theologian Servais-Théodore Pinckaers, OP, once wrote: "The more authentically personal an experience is, the greater its resonance in the human audience. Saint Augustine's Confessions bares this out." This workshop will focus on the art and method of writing spiritual memoirs and reflections. It will invite students to see their own experiences in those of spiritual writers such as Augustine, Julian of Norwich, Thomas Merton, CS Lewis, Dorothy Day, Ann Lamott and James Baldwin and prompt them to write their own narratives and reflections in response. This workshop is intended for all students who enjoy writing, would like to improve their writing skills and aspire to be published in Catholic online or print journals or speak publicly about their faith.

bP3736 Christian Vocation 3 ECTS

What does it mean to be human and what is the purpose of human beings in the cosmos? This ancient question is crucial for understanding some of the modern challenges to living the Christian vocation today. This course explores answers given by followers of Christ in the first centuries, in critical dialogue with ancient philosophy. It presents their reflections on the shape the human vocation takes in the light of God's revelation in Christ and by the transforming power of the Spirit as a source for renewed theological thought today. Particular consideration is given to St Paul, the Gospel of John, and the spirituality of the Desert Fathers.

sP3743 Psicologia e Teologia in Dialogo

3 ECTS

Il corso analizzerà quale reciproco apporto potranno offrirsi una teologia e una psicologia che non siano chiuse in se stesse, e che perciò sappiano farsi aperte e interrogative del mistero, l'una in ascolto dell'altra, insieme in ascolto di Dio. Il presupposto di partenza è che la teologia può offrire alla psicologia l'orizzonte ultimo di senso che attinge a Dio, mistero del mondo, quale è stato rivelato in Gesù Cristo e che la psicologia, da parte sua, offrirà alla teologia quel senso di realismo e di concretezza nei confronti della situazione umana nel mondo, che la libera da ogni possibile tentazione ideologica e la spinge a farsi coscienza critica della prassi personale ed ecclesiale. mP3070 The Transformation Wrought By Grace According to St. Thomas

3 ECTS

The course begins by highlighting how St. Thomas grounds the moral life in the intra-Trinitarian life of knowing and loving. A treatment of grace, that is to say, the indwelling of the Holy Spirit in the believer, along with an examination of the theological and infused virtues, as well as of the Gifts of the Holy Spirit, follows. As the title of the course indicates, the aim is to show forth the transforming effects of grace.

JD3680 Spiritualità delle Famiglie Religiose

6 ECTS

Oltre a un'introduzione online all'inizio dell'anno accademico, le diverse spiritualità (benedettina, carmelitana, domenicana, francescana, ignaziana e salesiana) vengono presentate in loco dalle Istituzioni corrispondenti in diverse giornate di studio (circa un sabato al mese). Ogni spiritualità viene presentata e approfondita nel suo contributo essenziale alla tradizione spirituale viva della Chiesa, appoggiandosi sui testi chiave che la rappresentano. Una giornata conclusiva di studio riprende e fa dialogare le scoperte fatte durante il percorso di studio.

sP2518 History of Spirituality, Part II: Renaissance to Post-Vatican II. 3 ECTS

This course studies the development of spirituality from the Renaissance to the contemporary era. It visits the lives and works of various key figures from Christian spirituality in light of the cultural, scientific, philosophical and theological movements that shaped the Church (i) in and around the Renaissance movement, (ii) in the build up and outcome of the Council of Trent, (iii) in the renewal of the Second Vatican Council. The objective is to gain a better understanding on how the nature and role of spirituality in the Catholic Church was shaped across these periods by various factors such as the emergence of new or reformed religious orders, the missionary efforts for the expansion of the Church, the theological schools of the 18th and 19th century and the renewal of theology in the 20th century. By the end of this credit, the student will be able to identify, access and contextualise key figures of Christian spirituality against their respective cultural, philosophical and theological backgrounds.

CORSI – COURSESsP3710 La missione cristiana: problemi e interpretazioni lungo la storia
3 ECTS

La missione è nella natura della Chiesa, ma è indubbiamente una natura problematica. Nel corso dei secoli il mandato evangelico si è rivelato forte e controverso, richiedendo una costante riflessione sulle sue motivazioni, dinamiche e idee principali. Non sorprende, quindi, che nella storia della Chiesa si possano elencare tutta una serie di conflitti sorti nella sua costante volontà di evangelizzare. L'obiettivo di questo corso è analizzare e discutere quelli più rilevanti. Idee come "l'inculturazione" della fede nella Tarda antichità, la crisi dei Catari o le Crociate nel Basso Medioevo, le nuove missioni in Età Moderna sotto i Patronati reali e l'ascesa della Congregazione di Propaganda Fide, la forte polemica De Ritis o la formazione di un clero autoctono sono alcuni dei momenti specifici che analizzeremo.

eP3698 The Theology and Spirituality of the Philokalia

3 ECTS

The goal of this course is to introduce students to the theology and the spirituality of the Philokalia, using the classic English translation by palmerm Sherrard and Ware, while occasionally also looking at the original texts. The class will outline the historical development of Philokalic thought from its Origenist beginnings in the Evagrian tradition, the Chalcedonian turn and the theology of Maximos the Confessor, the role of the prayer of the heart, and the full flowering of the hesychastic tradition in the thought of Gregory Palamas. The class will also touch on the reception of the Philokalia in the Slavic and Russian world. The course will show the continued significance and relevance of the vision of the Philokalia for a contemporary Catholic audience, which can continue to draw on the intellectual and spiritual sources of the undivided church, as well as some of the voices in the period following the 1954 schism.

sP3731 Contemplation and the Cross: A Thomistic Analysis of the Spiritual Life

3 ECTS

This course examines the nature of the Catholic spiritual life, based on a causal analysis of the spiritual life making use of the theology of Thomas Aquinas and other major theological figures. What is the spiritual life of grace essentially? What are its origins and what is its purpose? What are its effects? How or in what 'material way' is it lived? This course looks above all at the revelation of the Trinity in the mystery of the crucifixion as the essence or "formal cause" of the spiritual life, involving in turn our conformity to Christ, in his divinity and his humanity, as it is revealed in his Paschal mystery.

3 ECTS

The Early Saints of the desert saw that growth in the Christian life can be impeded by seven (or eight) primary sins that were capable of killing one's spiritual life. The tradition has called these the deadly or capital sins. The Desert and Patristic Saints therefore focused on the traits of character, known as the Gateway virtues (charity and its supporting moral virtues), that Christians are called to develop if they wish to grow in the Christian life. This course will thus study those virtues and vices.

CORSI – COURSES

eP3369 Medieval Oriental Christianity and Islam: Dialogue and Apologetics 3 ECTS

The purpose of this course is to give an overall view of theological encounters between Christians and Muslims in the Middle and Near East between the 8th and 12th centuries. In spite of severe handicaps, Christians in the East have for centuries found a modus vivendi with their Muslim neighbours. Far from becoming atrophied Christian theological thought found new ways of communicating itself so as to serve as a basis for interreligious dialogue and inculturation. Such an ancient tradition of Christian apologetics and dialogue with Islam could help inspire today's Christians, especially in the West, in their encounter with Muslims as well as with the secular world.

In an age when Christian thinkers were rediscovering the treasures of ancient philosophy, and more particularly of Aristotle, Thomas had the great merit of giving pride of place to the harmony which exists between faith and reason." (n. 43). In the light of this statement this course proposes to explore those questions addressed by Islamic philosophers and which have found a response in the writings of Thomas Aquinas by way of endorsement or criticism, both of which took place in an atmosphere of dynamic engagement with the issues addressed.

eP3297 Catholic Principles of Ecumenism3 ECTS

The course is designed to provide a survey of the perspective of the Catholic Church towards the ecumenical movement. It begins with a historical overview of the stance of the Church before Vatican II and continues with the ecclesiological basis (Lumen Gentium) of the shift realized by the Council. It then offers a Biblical basis drawing from Old and New Testaments. The core of the course is constituted by a comprehensive presentation of the Catholic principles of ecumenism contained in the decree Unitatis Redintegratio and expounded in the post-conciliar Magisterium. It presents different aspects of the ecumenical engagement of the Church and indicates main areas of ongoing divergence in matters of doctrine and ethics. Upon completing the course students should be able to articulate the Catholic principles on ecumenism and to actively engage in the search for Christian unity following them. Methodology will include in-class or/and online lectures using electronic material (Power Point presentations, video clips), primary and secondary readings, written material provided by the lecturer.

eP3540 Primacy and Synodality in the Ecumenical Dialogues3 ECTS

The nature of primacy and synodality and their mutual relationship is a theological question of prime importance today, both within the Churches and in their ecumenical dialogues. Do these two concepts belong to the essence of the Church? How can we distinguish between synodality, collegiality and the communal dimension of the Church? How do they ensure communion between the Churches? To what extent do Christians accept a universal primacy, and why is synodality crucial for Christian unity and the Catholic Church's ecumenical commitment? These are the questions that the course will address on the basis of recent ecumenical dialogue documents.

eP3698 The Theology and Spirituality of the Philokalia

3 ECTS

The goal of this course is to introduce students to the theology and the spirituality of the Philokalia, using the classic English translation by palmerm Sherrard and Ware, while occasionally also looking at the original texts. The class will outline the historical development of Philokalic thought from its Origenist beginnings in the Evagrian tradition, the Chalcedonian turn and the theology of Maximos the Confessor, the role of the prayer of the heart, and the full flowering of the hesychastic tradition in the thought of Gregory Palamas. The class will also touch on the reception of the Philokalai in the Slavic and Russian world. The course will show the continued significance and relevance of the vision of the Philokalia for a contemporary Catholic audience, which can continue to draw on the intellectual and spiritual sources of the undivided church, as well as some of the voices in the eprido following the 1054 schism.

bP3737 Protestant and Catholic Perspectives on Paul

3 ECTS

In the past, some of the principal differences between Protestant and Catholic theologies have resulted from and produced widely diverging interpretations of key Pauline texts. This course explains key moments in the confessional debates in their relation to different interpretations of Pauline theology, in particular concerning sin, justification, grace, salvation, the relation between divine and human action, divine sovereignty and human freedom. While the 20th century has seen a rapprochement in the theological and exegetical answers given to the confessionally dividing questions of the 16th century, this course further examines whether a more historically nuanced interpretation of Paul's theological message in its first-century context might not discern different questions being posed, not least on what it means for the church to seek unity and holiness. Thus, reading Paul in the 21st century might contribute in fresh ways to a theological renewal and towards the kind of unity to which Paul exhorted his first hearers.

eP3729 Ministry and Ministries in the Church: Confessional Approaches 3 ECTS

All Christians have their own charismata for the service of God and the world as well as for the building up of the Church (Rom 12:4-8; 1 Cor 12:4-31). Through baptism, they all constitute the one priestly people of God (1 Pet 2:5-9). The NT also shows how among the ministries a special ministry emerged, which was understood as standing in the succession of the Apostles sent by Christ. The course intends to explain the different approaches to the ordained ministry and the developments concerning "ministries" in the history of the Church. What is the dogmatic definition of ordained ministry? How does it affect the unity and communion of the Church? How does ordained ministry relate to other church offices and services in the Church? What are the different approaches of the various Christian traditions on this topic? How the relationship between the one special ministry and the various other ministries and services in the church is defined theologically? The course will explore the most critical and differing positions.

eS3697 Nicea in prospettiva ecumenica

4 ECTS

Lo scopo di questo seminario e' di introdurre gli studenti ad esplorare le radici storiche, il significato teologico e l'impatto storico del concilio di Nicea, con particolare attenzione all'aspetto cristologico. Partendo da un'analisi della tradizione cristologica precedente al concilio, il corso cerchera' di ricostruire la geneologia filosofica e scritturale del dogma niceno della consustanzialita' del Padre e del Figlio, anche attraverso la lettura degli scritti apologetici di Sant'Atanasio. In occasione del 1700 anniversario della definizione conciliare, il corso si propone di riflettere anche sul valore della Cristologia di Nicea per l'unita' dei cristiani, toccando quindi il dialogo ecumenico con le chiese orientali e le comunita' cristiane nate alla riforma.
